Entrapped Into a Marriage.

From ex-Senator Christiancy's Reply to his Wife's Cross-bill.

In answer to the second point in her said bill, I admit the marriage between myself and the said complainant, as stated in her said bill, but I solemnly assert that said marriage took place at her own instance, and that I was led into it by her skilfully turning what was intended as a mere compliment to her into a proposition for marriage, which, at the first moment I suspected she intended to misconstrue into such proposition, I promptly apologized for, when she as promptly declared her wish that I should marry her, to which I did not assent until after I had honestly and earnestly, on several different occasions, endeavored to convince her of the unfitness of such marriage, on account of the difference of our respective ages; but I finally yielded to her solicitations, upon her repeated assurances that she loved me better than any other man, which assurances she volunteered to declare to me were false the first moment we were alone together in our room at Philadelphia the first night after the wedding, and before she had taken off her hat, avowing her love for another man, to whom she said she had been engaged, and declaring that she had, on the morning of the wedding, fainted at the mention of his name, and that she had perjured herself in her marriage vow, and demanding an immediate divorce; and upon my telling her there was no ground for divorce, and that none could be had, she screamed like a maniac.

The Queen of the Lobby.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The queen of the lobby this winter is a fascinating little brunette from the sunny south—the widow of a Confederate Colonel who fell before Richmond. She has been abroad, and knows the most celebrated men of France, England and this country, although her circle of acquaintances is evidently circumscribed. The charm of her conversation is irresistible, especially to gentlemen whose hair is thin on the top of their heads. There is a sweet, subdued gayety in her speech, accent, and gestures which makes a venerable listener happy, and there is a vivacity about her conversation which is especially attractive. She always dresses in black, in which magnificence of apparel can be allied with purity of taste. In the daytime a long-skirted ulster has a most decorous look, and at night, in her pleasant rooms, she always wears a rich black satin dress, with a scarf of rare lace, in which gleams a diamond cross which might have been the ransom of the Sultan. Such unstudied grace and elegance suggest sweet Annie Page, "on her face one glance might trace a picture of the brain," and if she does not render great aid to those who have retained her services to aid their schemes I am mistaken. More than one Congressman is submissive to her will.

Mrs. Woodhull to be Married.

From the London Post.

Mrs. Victoria C. Woodhull, the American lecturer and writer, will shortly be married to the scion of a noble house. The ceremony will take place in London.

From the Freemen's Journal.

Mrs. Victoria C. Woodhull, or Woodhall, as she now spells it, is about to get married to the son of an English K. C. B., whose name is very familiar to most newspaper readers, and she comes forward in the columns of the Court Journal to clear herself of the aspersions that she was ever a "Free-lovist." She says that since she became aware of their principles she has held the sect in the most profound abhorrence, and she openly avows with the earnestness of righteous indignation, "that during no part of her life did she favor "free love," even "tacitly." She explains that the articles in her paper favoring the peculiar doctrines were not written by her, and that her name was appended to them in her absence and without her authorization.

The Champion Hen Story.

The champion hen story of the season comes from Georgia. It is an incident of the burning of the freight depot at Brunswick. Just before the alarm of fire the hen in question jumped up from the ground to the outside sill of the room in which the listing clerk was sleeping, and pecked on the glass. The clerk, who was easily roused, raised the window, but the hen, instead of coming in, scratched her wing with her claws, and seemed very mysteriously disturbed about something. It is the opinion of the clerk, who is an enthusiastic admirer of the hen, that she had seen the incendiary light a match and was trying to imitate the action in order to give warning of the fire.

THE NEW APPORTIONMENT.

The new apportionment of representatives in Congress, made necessary by the changes in population as shown by the late census, will be favorable to the South upon whatever basis it may be made. The bill introduced by Representative Cox fixes the total number of Representativs at 301. The present House has 293. The apportionment provided for in Cox's bill is as follows:

Alabama 8, Arkansas 5, California 5, Colorado 1, Connecticut 4, Delaware 1, Florida 1, Georgia 9, Illinois 19, Indiana 12, Iowa 10, Kansas 6, Kentucky 10, Louisiana 6, Maine 4, Maryland 6, Massachusetts 11, Michigan 10, Minnesota 5, Mississippi 7, Missouri 13, Nebraska 3, Nevada 1, New Hampshire 2, New Jersey 7, New York 31. North Carolina 8, Ohio 19, Oregon 1, Pennsylvania 26, Rhode Island 2, South Carolina 5, Tennessee 9, Texas 10, Vermont 2, Virginia 9, West Virginia 4, and Wisconsin 8.

This apportionment makes the following changes:

Arkansas, California, Iowa, Michigan, Mississippi, South Carolina and West Virginia gain one each; Kansas gains 3, Texas 4, Minnesota and Nebraska gain 2 each, Pennsylvania 6; New Hampshire, Maine, Indiana, Tennessee, Florida and Vermont lose 1, and New York loses 2.

It is unlikely that the number of Representatives will be fixed at 301. Florida will cry out against the hardship of losing a Representative. With the number fixed at 302 Florida would retain her present representation.

THE ARROGANCE OF IGNORANCE

The self complacency of uneducated people is one of the great barriers in the way of improvement. No one can fail to have noticed how dogmatic the man is who knows a very little about any important matter. It is proverbial that the greatest students have only found out how little they know after a lifetime, and another proverb is, "A little learning is a dangerous thing." It is a great step upward for a man to break the shell of his self-conceit, so that he can keep his mind in a receptive mood, and discriminate between wheat and chaff. He cannot grow unless he is willing to learn, and he cannot learn as long as it mortifies him to acknowledge that there is anyone wiser than he. A great many very ignorant men assume an air of superiority, and by their dogmatic impudence override the very people that could teach them something. This sort of thing does the wise no harm but it keeps the fool a fool to his dying day. It is an excellent plan for young men to associate with their superiors. Don't choose for companions the men who flatter and make much of you, but cultivate the acquaintance of the wise and good, and you will grow to be wise and good yourselves.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Over a year ago a neat box was securely fastened at the gate of every town subscriber to the GAZETTE; a bit of enterprise shown by no other paper that we know of. Within the past few weeks dozens of the boxes have been ruined by some one tearing off the lids.

R. R. Brown was sentenced to four years' imprisonment in San Quentin for counterfeiting subsidiary silver. He at once sent a note to the U. S. Marshal, asking not to besent to prison on Friday, as that was an unlucky day for him.

A Bodie Justice closed his record of the preliminary examination of DaRoche as follows: "The citizens having hanged the defendant, the case now rests."

The Senate is likely to be occupied for the next three weeks in discussing the Funding bill.

The Peruvians are badly beaten. They have surrendered Callao, as well as Lima, to the Chilians.

Bright's disease is said to have laid hold of Senator Carpenter.

WASHOE COUNTY

AND THE TOWN OF RENO.

Mineral Wealth and Agricultural Resources—A Splendid Water Power and superior Advantages of Location—Prospects of the N. & O. Railroad.

Washoe County lies on the western border of the State and partly on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, and is particularly favored by nature in its geographical position and manifold resources.

Its numerous valleys afford a rich prolific soil, which produces all the varieties of cereals, vegetables and fruits that are adapted to this altitude and latitude.

The mountainous portions afford timber, lumber and fuel, as well as an abundance of water to moisten the arid soil of the valleys and to afford a cheap and durable power for manufacturing purposes.

Its climate is mild and dry and healthful. While it may be classed as an agricultural county, almost every variety of minerals peculiar to this State may be found within its borders. The Pyramid and Peavine Mining Districts, yielding gold, silver, copper, iron, antimony, lead and other minerals in considerable quantities, are destined to take a leading part in the production of gold and silver.

In the Steamboat Springs District may be found silver, gold and antimony; also, sulphur in large deposits. Cinnabar is abundant one mile west of Steamboat Springs, where works for producing quicksilver have been erected and put in successful operation. Alum springs are also found near the south end of Truckee Valley; a fair article of plumbago has been discovered in the hills west of Washoe City. Salt, soda and borax deposits are abundant in the northern portion of the county. Placer gold mines have been worked for several years on the northwest slope of Peavine Mountains and at the south end of Washoe Valley.

The Truckee River, which runs through the central portion of the county in an easterly direction, is a fine, bold, rapid stream of pure water, abounding in fish of several varieties; of these, the native mountain trout is the most numerous. This stream has an average fall of about forty feet to the mile, and affords an almost unlimited water power.

RENO.

Population, 3,000. Altitude, 4,500 feet.

This thriving town, the county seat of Washoe County, sprang into existance on the completion of the Central Pacific Railroad to that point in May, 1868.

Its first buildings were constructed of rough lumber, and presented none of the refinements of architecture which to-day adorn most of its public buildings and private residences.

It has been twice almost entirely destroyed by fire. The last great fire occurred on March 2, 1879, when the principal business portion of the town was laid in ruins and nearly $2,000,000 worth of property destroyed. At this time, nearly two years later, it has, owing to the indubitable pluck and energy of its inhabitants nearly recovered from the effects of that disaster.

The town is situated on both sides of the Truckee river, on the Central Pacific Railroad, at the junction of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad and the Nevada and Oregon Railroad, and is the most important railroad center in the State.

The Truckee Valley, surrounding it, is a thickly settled farming country, and has the appearance of a well-to-do farming community in the older States. Its thrifty, populous surroundings, and its extensive and growing trade with the North, northeastern California and southern Oregon, insures its continued prosperity. On completion the Nevada and Oregon Railroad the commercial interests of the town will be materially advanced.

Rene has the finest passenger depot east of Sacramento on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad; W. R. Chamberlain is the proprietor.

The Court House, a capacious brick structure, but defective in architectural beauty, is located on the south side of the river.

An arched iron bridge, 197 feet long, spans the river and connects North and South Virginia streets. The Pavilion of the Nevada State Agricultural, Mechanical and Mining Society occupies a prominent position on the north bank of the river. Mount St. Mary's College, a well-built, but odd-looking structure, is situated north of the Central Pacific Railroad depot. The Young Ladies' Seminary, "Bishop Whitaker's School for Girls," is pleasantly situated on a considerable eminence in the northwest part of the town. Miss Kete A. Sill, of Warren Pennsylvania, is the Principal.

There are three Public School buildings, one of which is a fine edifice, situated in the northern portion of the town.

Reno contains five churches, five school houses, two banks, twelve hotels, twenty-two stores, two daily newspapers, one theater, one flouring mill, one foundry and machine shop, one planing mill, one salt mill, three lumber yards, three livery stables, two wagon manufactories, one tannery, one cabinet shop, five meat markets, one gas works, besides several small stores, shops and saloons, too numerous to mention. It has also one Masonic Hall, two Odd Fellows' Halls, one Templars' Hall, Knights of Pythias, and other secret societies. The town is incorporated and lighted with gas.

MANUFACTURES.

Reno, on account of its magnificent water-power, its near proximity to timber and fuel, and to mines and minerals, and on account of its railroad facilities and agricultural surroundings, is most favorably situated for manufactoring purposes, especially for smelting and reduction works. Almost every article used in the construction of furnaces and for fluxing and reducing ores, as well as the abundance and varieties of ores to be treated, are near at hand. Chemical works if established here, would find near at hand the raw material for manufacturing a great variety of acids and chemicals.

The great wool-producing country surrounding Reno and northward from it renders this point a most desirable one for the manufacture of woolen goods.

The semi-alkaline soil of the Truckee valley produces sugar-beets of a superior quality and of great size, hence a beet-sugar factory at this point ought to be a paying enterprise.

N. O. R. R. (NARROW GAGUE), RENO DIVISION.

This line has been partly located, and the work of constructing from Reno north to a point near Beckwith Pass, distant about thirty miles, has been put under contract, and is being rapidly prepared by the united engineering force of the company, for immediate construction and completion.

The route selected possesses the unusual advantage of being, in every respect, a natural highway from the mining regions of Nevada to the productive plains and valleys lying to the north in the counties of Plumas, Lassen and Modoc, in California, and of the southern and eastern Oregon, passing through the greatest cattle-producing and the finest timber district on the Pacific slope. Irrespective of the business to be derived from the transportation of gold silver, copper and iron ores, clay for pottery, fire-brick, wood, timber, and lumber in its various forms, cattle, sheep and hogs, it is safe to say that the income from the transportation of cattle alone, upon the completion of the first 100 miles, will of itself more than equal the operating expenses and interest account, leaving the income from all other sources for clear profit.

The well known mining interests in the counties of Plumas, Sierra, Lassen, and Modoc, California, Lake county, Oregon, now of comparatively small value because of their insolation, will by the facilities of transportation, be opened up and an industry fostered which cannot be overestimated in value.

The present prospects for business, as indicated by statistics gathered after extensive and careful investigation, are sufficiently encouraging to warrant the belief that the income of the road will reach very handsome proportions as soon as operations shall be fairly commenced and regular transportations over the first thirty miles of the road is established. It is apparent that the business of the road will from the very start prove highly remunerative. For the last several months 250 to 300 tons of merchandise per month have been shipped from Reno north by teams, which means of transportation has proven inadequate to the rapidly increasing demand, as evinced by the constantly accumulating freights at Reno, in vast quantities, now awaiting removal. To this should be added the great amount of freight which is now transported by teams from Redding across the Sierras into the counties of Lassen and Modoc, California, and Lake county, Oregon, aggregating the net amounts of from 400 to 500 tons per month, which will be diverted to Reno, and thence conveyed north by the Nevada and Oregon Railroad, as also return freights; wheat, oats, barley, hay, fruit, dairy products, machinery, passengers, mails and express matter, all of which will of course, rapidly increase under the inspiring influence of cheap and rapid transportation.

The work of construction and equipment having been contracted for with parties of unquestioned responsibility, upon a basis of a low bonded debt (only $10,000 per mile), and the cost not being excessive, coupled with the facts that cheap fuel and an unusually low grade will enable the road to be operated at economical rates, gives the company sufficient reason to estimate that the stock will pay a good dividend the first year, and that upon the completion of the next seventy miles the entire stock of the company will readily pay a dividend of ten per cent. per annum.

The foregoing estimates of prospective income are based upon data which are wholly reliable and in many instances fifty per cent. below the carefully prepared estimates of prudent, reliable men, fully conversant with the facts. The entire interest upon first mortgage bonds and sinking fund provided to redeem the same will require only $3 per mile per day from the earning of the road.

The history of all the railroads in Nevada (some of which are known to have been started under conditions and prospects far less favorable than those enjoyed by this road) indicate that with greater demands (and in some instances economically greater) upon their net earning, they readily pay handsome sums annually in the way of dividends, or, where preferred, store up handsome surplus amounts.

The Nevada & Oregon Railroad Company fortunately benefits the connecting lines of railway, and will be instrumental in increasing the general railroad business of Nevada, and therefore labors under no such disadvantage as might be natural if springing into an active and bitter competition for traffic upon some already partially occupied territory.

The business for Plumas and Sierra counties and adjacent region will naturally flow in the direction of Reno and Beckworth Pass, especially in Winter, to save time and great difficulties of teaming across the Sacramento Valley.

It is the desire of the company to act in harmony with the best interests of communities in which they operate, and to so conduct their business as to promote the general welfare, and thus secure an active constituency along the line of their route with a sympathetic interest in the success of the company.

The work of construction commenced at Reno on the 22d of December, 1880, and will be pushed to completion.

The rowing match between Hanlan and Laycock has been postponed until Feb. 14.

Albert Hill informs the Silver State that there is more snow in the mountains at the head of Humboldt than there has been before for years. Old settlers at Wells say there are snow drifts twenty feet deep in the ranges north, east and south of that place, though there is very little snow in the valleys.

Stall-Feeding Cattle.

The Lassen Advocate remarks: "Good beef cattle are said to be scarce in the country. The practice of stall-feeding beef is the exception, not the rule, but when it becomes customary it will be the adoption of a good system and likewise profitable to those who engage in it. The barren ranges hereabouts do not now afford sufficient feed to make marketable beef."

Congregational Sunday School.

Andrew Fraser last Sunday assumed the superintendency of the Congregational Sunday School, to which he had lately been elected. The school is growing, and regaining many of the scholars of whom it had so large a number before its suspension. Under its new head it hopes to do vigorous and good work for the young people who may attend it.

A New California and Nevada Railroad.

There is a project on foot for the construction of a railroad from Oakland to Bridgeport, and thence through Nevada to connect with the Nevada Southern, which runs south from Austin. Mr. Caredo, an engineer late in the employ of the Nevada & Oregon, writes to a friend in Reno that he has been engaged to conduct the preliminary survey.

Personal.

Miss Kate Garrard returned from Carson last evening.

Mr. Clark, late of the firm of Hall & Clark, is about to remove to Michigan.

The Meat Shipping Company are shipping a carload of fresh beef to San Francisco every three days. Their refrigerator cars hold the beef of 41 cattle. The Company are doing well and will continue in the business. Meat shipping may grow into an industry of immense importance to Reno.

THE GREAT DOG CASE.

The Legal Principles Governing Dog Biting, as Brought Out in Jamison vs. McFarlin.

The folly of going to law over a small matter is exemplified in the dog-biting case, which occupied a whole day and evening in the District Court last week. One day last summer H. M. Jamison called at A. C. McFarlin's ranch. In the absence of the proprietor, the dog extended the hospitalities of the farm, nipping the visitor on the leg. The injured man was bound to have satisfaction out of the dog's owner, and sued him in the Justice's Court, where the case was decided in favor of the dog. An appeal was taken, and a jury in the District Court, suspected of strong leanings towards the dog, brought in a verdict for the defendant. The prosecution of the case, from first to last, has cost Jamison about $300, and McFarlin has been compelled to pay out at least $100 in defending the suit.

Although the great dog suit has been necessarily expensive to the parties, yet it has furnished a test case for decision in the Courts; and the development of the great legal principles involved, and their elucidation at the bar of justice, must go far to reconcile the general public to the expense sustained by the principals in the action. The doctrine of canine rights, as lucidly laid down by Chief Justice Grinder of Missouri, in his celebrated decision in the Mongrel case, set forth principles which have met with the concurrence of but few other legal authorities. Grinder is known to have kept a bull dog, and that is supposed to have warped his judgment in the famous case of Mongrel. The legal fraternity of the Pacific Coast have looked forward with great interest to the day when a case should come up for decision in a Nevada or California court and test the validity of the sweeping principles expounded by Grinder.

In his remarks to the jury on Saturday, Boardman, for the defendant, asserted the inalienable right of every man to keep a dog. He pictured the defenseless position in which many ranches in the country would be without a dog. And, it being conceded that every man had a right to a dog, it followed by a legitimate inversion that every dog had a right to protect the interests of its master. McFarlin's dog, in inserting his longest teeth into the tissues of Jamison, was simply exercising his right of eminent domain to repel an invasion of his master's territory. Jamison, in intruding upon the premises, made himself subject to the discretionary powers of the dog, or, to quote from Grinder, "took the chances on the canine." Moreover, the plaintiff might have approached the premises in such a way as to have gained access to the house without forcing himself upon the dog's attention. These were some of the main points touched upon by learned counsel for the defendant.

Bowman and Cossitt, for the plaintiff, denied the right of any man to keep a dog. The privilege of keeping a dog is not a natural right; it simply exists by the toleration of society. As Blackstone has clearly stated: "The dog exists by suffrance, not by right; and his existence is conditional upon good behavior." Learned counsel proceeded to argue that no man had a right to keep a vicious cur on his premises to bite his neighbors. Jamison was visiting McFarlin's ranch on legitimate business. Had he gone there for the purpose of stealing watermelons, the case would have been different. In his approach to the house he had treated the dog with due deference, had not applied insulting epithets to the animal, nor taunted it with any unbecoming allusions to its nativity; plaintiff had even spoken in a kind and conciliating manner as the vicious beast sprang forward to fix its fangs in his flesh. Plaintiff's counsel were not disposed to be dogmatic on the legal points involved, but reposed every confidence in the sterling good sense of the jury, few of whom kept dogs, either for biting purposes or for ornament.

Judge King charged the jury that the main point involved was whether or not the plaintiff had the right of entry upon the premises of the defendant. If the jury found from the evidence that plaintiff had been invited by the defendant to come to his ranch, or had received any authorization to enter upon the premises, then they should find for the plaintiff. But if it appeared that the plaintiff had not such authorization, it would be their duty to find for the defendant.

After deliberating five minutes, the jury found for the defendant.

JOTTINGS.

—Cossitt & Bowman have a ranch to sell. See 50-c ad.

— There is very little travel on the lightning train now. The Virginia passenger traffic is nothing to what it used to be.

— H. Miller, late clerk for lawyer Cain of Reno, has been arrested in Sacramento for a forgery on D. O. Mills' bank.

— The charge of obtaining money under false pretences, preferred by R. P. Chapin against J. M. Scott, has been withdrawn.

— The roads are now dry and in fair condition. Road Supervisor McFarlin will make all necessary repairs as soon as there is money in the road fund.

— Rev. Mr. Morgan's lecture was last evening erroneously announced to take place on Wednesday evening of this week. The date of its delivery is Feb. 2nd, Wednesday evening of next week.

— "Mazeppa" is the attraction this week. Those who flock to see the spectacular drama can derive a purer joy from a contemplation of the chaste and beautiful display of hosiery and undergarments made in the windows of the White House.

— There will be an "apron fair" at the Baptist church to-morrow and Thursday evenings. Refreshments (so-called) will be provided. Music and recitations will be thrown in with the aprons. Purchasers will be able to buy aprons of any kind or quality, suited to adorn any station or occupation.

"They Also Serve Who Only Stand and Wait."

The Free Press draws this sketch of some of the lively features of life in Bodie: When a Bodie officer sees a worthless desperado "spoiling for a muss" and violating one of the plainest provisions of the law by flourishing his "gun" about in "a rude and threatening manner," trying to provoke a bloody conflict and endangering the lives of innocent by-standers, if asked why he does not arrest the walking arsenal, almost invariably replies: "Oh, I'm waiting for him to 'do' something"—that is he is "waiting" for the desperado to shoot someone. And they invariably keep "waiting" till the fatal shot is fired, or until the drunken wretch, after terrorizing the town, tires out and retires to some opium den or bagnio. An officer was present and "waiting" for some minutes before the shooting occurred on Friday last, by which one man was almost instantly killed, another seriously, if not mortally wounded, a third party struck by a spent ball. On the same evening other officers were "waiting" while a desperado paraded the town from one end to the other, with a pistol in each hand, occasionally slamming his "guns" down upon some counter, jeopardizing the lives of barkeepers and lunch stand attendants, in order to terrify them into giving him more rum or something to eat.

No Small-Pox Among the Indians—The Washoes and Piutes Said to be Vaccinated.

John Pierson, a prominent Washoe Indian, called at the Gazette office to say that the Piute Indian who was reported ill with small-pox at Pyramid is now well. John says that the measles is a common complaint among the Indians. About twenty-five years ago the small-pox got among them and killed great numbers of Washoes and Piutes. About four years ago small-pox again appeared in an Indian family near Reno. The whole Washoe tribe was then vaccinated by a Reno doctor, and only three cases of small-pox were reported. John thinks that the Piutes were nearly all vaccinated at the same time. He says that the Indians here are anxious to find if small-pox has appeared among the Indians anywhere. Just as soon as they find the plague has appeared among Indians, they will all go and get vaccinated again.

A Japanese Aspirant for Naturalization.

A Japanese, last week, filed with County Clerk Osburn a declaration of intintion to become a citizen of the United States. Mr. Osburn informed him that under Judge Sawyer's well-known decision, a Japanese could not be naturalized in this State. Learning, however, that there was no law to prevent him from declaring his intention, the aspirant for the honors of American citizenship obtained his certificate and went his way.

Two Suicides to It.

The citizens of Reno have noticed for the past week a large and well built man, of kindly aspect and gentlemanly appearance, on the street. Few know that it is Judge Flack, of Elko county, who has become famous by reason of two petitions presented to the Legislature, one signed by 200 of his constituents, asking that he be impeached for incapacity, on account of mania potu, the other signed by 400 protesting against it. Judge Flack is highly respected at home for his sterling integrity. His character for honesty and impartiality has never been questioned. He has suffered deeply by his passion for drink, but he has warm friends who say that he is making heroic efforts to overcome it. It may be that the shock occasioned by the introduction of the petitions may change his nature, and strengthen his will so as to cure him. It would be an act of angelic charity for every one who can to strengthen his hands in the struggle.

The Champion Lazy Man.

County Commissioner Kinney last week gave a permit to enter the County Hospital to a man who applied for one on the ground that he was sick and indigent. The fellow spent a few days in the institution, but the doctors were unable to find anything the matter with him save a chronic indisposition to work. He was accordingly turned out by the steward. He had the impudence to again apply to Mr. Kinney for a permit, but failed to get it. The fellow went away protesting that his feelings were deeply wounded by so much unkindness to a gentleman in distress. He is the laziest man that ever appeared in these parts.

Receivers of Stolen Sheep.

Benner was arraigned on Saturday evening to answer to the charge of receiving sheep stolen from Alvaro Evans. He was allowed until last evening to plead, and last evening the case was again continued until seven o'clock this evening. Marvin Jones, who was indicted for the same offense, is still at large.

A Remarkable Sunset.

A curious and beautiful phenomenon was observed when the sun went down last evening. The afternoon was dark, leaden-colored clouds obscuring the western sky. Behind these clouds the sun was invisible as it sank below the rim of the Sierra, leaving no bright tints to mark its departure. The whole horizon was dark and gloomy, and the mountains to the east looked dull and cold. But presently, from behind the gap in the Sierra where the sun had sunk, a golden halo grew, and spread high into the sky. Radiating from the unseen sun, glowing shafts of light pierced the clouds hanging behind the mountains, each broad beam of shining brightness sharply defined by lines of black. The overhanging masses of vapor caught some of these rays of sunshine which had pierced the lower stratum of cloud, and deflected them upon the eastern range. They fell at a point opposite the fan-shaped wonder in the west, and illuminated the spot with rosy light. Still, all around, the mountains stood shadowy and grim, and the sky remained dull and cheerless, save where the nameless glory had sprung up in the west. It was a strange, impressive spectacle; wonderful, even in this land of marvelous effects of light and shade. Slowly the strange appearance faded away in the west, and as the shadows deepened in the valley, the familiar hues of sunset came out in the evening sky.

K. of P. Excursion.

All persons who intend to join the K. of P. excursion to San Francisco are requested to apply at once for tickets to Capt. Flanagan, Dr. Dawson or James T. Davis. The party will leave Reno on Monday evening, Feb. 7, returning on the Sunday morning following. The fare for the round trip will be $11. It is believed that enough are going from Nevada to fill seven cars. Two cars will probably be required for the Reno excursionists. Those who wish to go should secure tickets at once.

How to Open Oysters.

From the New York Sun.

The way to open an oyster so as to save all the liquor, which, to connoisseurs, is a valuable part, is not to smash it and murder it, as most of your oyster openers do, nor to 'stab' it as they do in Boston, Baltimore, Washington and other places. And then your oyster openers always lay out the oyster on the flat or convex shell, so that by the time your plate of 'raw on the half shell' comes to you, what little juice was not spilled in the slaughtering has all run away. The live oyster opens and closes its shells at will by means of a tough little membrane, or hinge, about a quarter or a third of an inch in length. This hinge is at the small or narrow end of the oyster. It follows that all that is needed to be done to separate the two shells, whether the oyster is alive or dead, is to sever this little hinge. It is invisible when the shells are closed, but those who understand the business (and any one can learn it in five minutes) know exactly how and where to find it.

A Queer Young Woman of Wisconsin.

A young Wisconsin couple started on a train of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad to hunt up a Justice of the Peace, with a view to getting spliced. An accident delayed them at Geneva Junction, and it was arranged that the young man should proceed to Crystal Lake to make preparations for the wedding there, while his companion would return to Geneva Lake to await notice that all was ready. Unfortunately, the young lady became impatient, and the next day started to meet her lover. He at the same time started to meet her. The consequence was that they kept sending each other messages and traveling after and missing each other until the young woman, tired and disgusted, returned home with the determination to give up the proposed marriage entirely; nor could any remonstrances or prayers, after her unhappy lover succeeded in finding her again, change this resolution. Thereupon he brought suit against the railroad company for damages. His claim, however, is only $29 10, at which figure he sums up his traveling expenses and the cost of the presents he had made to his faithless sweetheart.

A Little too Sharp.

Miss Coats had a suspicion that William Pallen did not mean to keep his engagement to marry her. She kept the toll gate at Norristown, Ind., and he, though seventy years old, fell in love with her while dropping the small coins into her hand. Just before the time for the wedding she sent him the following written document: "You are hereby notified that you will be held to your promise to the letter, and that if you remain away, or in any manner fail to keep said promise, you will so violate your agreement at your peril, and will be made to answer the penalty therefor to the full extent of the law." That made the old man angry, and he refused to marry her, though he had intended to.

A Mule With Lockjaw.

From the Athens Banner.

An Athens mule stuck a nail in one of its feet last Wednesday. A day or two later it was discovered that the animal had the lockjaw. He suffered a great deal, his hind legs gradually straightened out behind until he sank to the floor on his stomach. As he came to this position his backbone broke with an audible crack.

THE BOSS!

Edison Outdone.

Over 150,000 Sold.

Patented April 2, 1878, June 11, 1878, and July 8, 1879.

Boss Coffee, Tea Pots & Urns.

It is the Boss! Why? Because it produces "Boss" Coffee.

It makes rich flavored Coffee! Why? Because all the aroma and food are retained.

It beats them all! Why? Because it saves 100 per cent over boiled Coffee, which is not Coffee, but bitter water. Second—Because it saves 50 per cent over any other method of making Coffee. Third—Because it saves eggs and trouble of clarifying. Fourth—Because it makes Coffee as clear as red wine. Fifth—Because it takes only two minutes to make Boss Coffee.

The Boss works as well on Tea, and saves 25 to 50 per cent.

While Edison may furnish light to millions, the BOSS will assuredly give health to all who use it. Thousands have become dyspeptic and bilious from drinking boiled coffee or BITTER WATER, (boiled coffee is not coffee, but bitter water POISONED with coffee picotine). Stop drinking boiled coffee. Make your coffee as NATURE ORDAINED, and restore your health. Many inventors have racked their brain to furnish the human family with a practical method of making coffee. At last the HAPPY RESULT has been accomplished in the production of very cheap and simple Pots and Urns celebrated as the BOSS.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—After thoroughly testing the BOSS COFFEE POT, we, the undersigned, fully endorse the same as the best method of making Coffee we have ever seen. Besides saving eggs, it will save a large per cent. of the Coffee. It produces Coffee as clear as wine, which is much stronger, and has a more delicious flavor than any coffee made by any other process.

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM the effects of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever held out to the afflicted of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty and sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and some small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation Free. Thorough examination and advice $5.

P. S. For private diseases of short standing a full course of medicines sufficient for a cure, with necessary instructions, will be sent to any address on receipt of Ten Dollars.
